Dear Ed, 8/21/81

To a large degree your questions of 8/14 are rhetorical. I don't have time for a long answer, but when you ask,"can we trust the evidence..." I say that to a very large degree we can. There is fault recollection, there is disinformation (and this includes Lifton) there is simple inaccuracy, but there also is quite much of the corpus delicti that is dependable. What I have in PM still stacks and will. What I've just done in a very long (112 pp) affidavit, with 82 exhibits will stack and may even have some impact, if it can get any attention.

The FBI agents did not say missle. This was the language of the receipt typed up for them to sign by a Navy corpsman.

Thanks for referring to The Magus. I'll have a friend check the local libraries.

Best wishes,
